Beth,
Sorry I owed you this still. Not seeing it I can't be "certain", but based on the data the liquid represented by sample TC53874 appears to be a creosote or wood treatment type material that may have the high sulfide due to the source being a high-sulfur oil. There are high levels of methyl phenols, naphthalene and substituted naphthalene, and even the VOCs detected seem to indicate a potential creosote type material as does the BTU.
Hope this helps,
Guy

Guy,

Gary Moore wanted a chemist to look at the data for VB-633 and make sure it was legit. Most importantly the sulfide results.

Thanks,
